Houston, TX, May 11, 2010 – Albion Hurricanes FC is pleased to announce the new position in our staffing structure designed to better serve our players as they progress through the program. Beginning later this spring in conjunction with tryouts and Academy evaluations, Dylan Glad will be serving as Player Development Director.

It has been a goal of AHFC to create this position to help coach and administer the teams that participate in small sided games; specifically our U9 through U12 play groups. These formative years are essential in establishing a sound, competent technical foundation and passion for the game. The skills and habits our youngest players develop in this time period make the game that much more enjoyable as they get older.

“It has always been a vision of mine to bring the small sided Academy age players and U11/U12 ages together under one umbrella. I am pleased the club shares the same vision and has entrusted me with the care and direction of these ages.” Glad adds “Working alongside the Gender Directors and under the supervision of the Technical Director adds the essential collaboration, oversight and knowledge that our important youth foundation is being appropriately developed.”

Nick Hallam, AHFC Technical Director echoes Glad’s comments and states “Dylan is an excellent selection for this role as one of his greatest strengths is to teach young players technical soccer. This position will ensure that the AHFC Best Practices will be implemented for boys and girls from both campuses.”
